FIRE WARDENS' DUTIES

Every Constable in the State is an Ex-Officio Fire Warden.

THE DUTIES ARE MANDATORY.

Judge Hart of Lycoming County Makes Clear the Law, Which Appies to Every Constable in the Commonwealth.

The following charge of Judge Hart to the constables of Lycoming county makes clear the duties of constables, who under the law are also fire wardens. "The act of March 30, 1897, P. L. 9, as amended by the act of March 31, 1905, P. L. 89, provides that the constables of the various townships shall be ex-officio fire wardens, whose duty it shall be, when fire is discovered in or approaching the forests within their respectinve townships, immediately to take such measures as are necesary for its extinction, and to this end to have authority to call upon any person or persons within their respective townships for assistance; and further provides that any person who, being called upon by such fire warden of his township to furnish aid and assistance in extinguishing forest fires, shall, without reasonable cause, refuse to render such assistance, shall be subject to a fine not exceeding $20 or imprisonment not exceeding 30 days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

"The act also provides for compensation to the constable for the performance of this duty at the rate of 25 cents per hour, and to the persons assisting him 20 cents per hour. One-half to be paid by the county and one-half by the state and appropriates one-fourth of the county tax on unseated land received by the county the last preceding year for the purpose of defraying the county's one-half of this expense.

Must Make Return.

"Section 3 of the act of 1897 provides that the fire warden (constables) of each township shall, in the first week of each term of the court of quarter sessions of their respective counties, make return to said court, under oath or affirmation, of all violations occurring within their respective townships, which may come or be brought to their notice of any provisions of any law now enacted, or hereafter to be enacted for the purpose of protecting forests from fire, and it shall be the especial duty of the judge of said court to see that these returns are faithfully made, and on failure of any fire warden to comply with this provision, or if it be found upon examination or inquiry by said court that any fire warden has either wilfully or negligently omitted to report all such violations occurring within his township, or having failed to perform his duty as set forth in section I of this act, i. e. where fire is discovered in, or approaching the forests within their respective townships immediately to take such measures as are necessary for its extinction, such fire wardens or constables such be deemed guilty of wilfully or negligently making a false return or neglect of duty, and the court shall suspend him from office and direct the district attorney to indict him and try him and if found guilty, he shall be fined in a sum not exceeding fifty dollars, and undergo imprisonment not exceeding three months or either at the discretion of the court.

"The word 'forest' used in this act does not apply to timber land or brush land of less than 50 acres in area, unless contiguous to other timber land or brush land containing at least 50 acres.

"The act of June 11, 1879, makes it a misdemeanor for any person wantonly or wilfully to kindle any fire on the lands of another so as to set on fire any woodlands, barrens or moors within the limits of this commonwealth.

Duties Are Mandatory.

"The duties here imposed upon the constable of the township in reference to forest fires are mandatory. He is bound by virtue of his office to immediately on the discovery of a forest fire either in his township or fires approaching forests in his township, to take measures to extinguish it, and when necessary so to do, to call to his aid the services of the citizens of his township for that purpose, and when a citizen of his township is called upon by the constable to aid in extinguishing such fires it is his duty to give such aid, unless he has a sufficient excuse to offer for not doing so.

"We are informed that some constables are under the impression that because they are not sure of securing the full compensation provided for such service that this excuses them from performing his duty. This is a mistake. This duty is one which the law casts upon the constable by virtue of his office, and he is bound to perform it w[illegible] pensated for su[illegible] all citizens who [illegible] the constable are [illegible] summons and render s[illegible] excused from sickness [illegible] ability to perform such service.

Paramount Importance.

"All agree that the preservation of our forests is a paramount importance to the general health of our people. So important is this that the state is purchasing large bodies of wild and barren lands throughout the commonwealth that they may be the better cared for and restored to forest lands.

"Arbor days have been appointed to encourage the planting of trees and rewards are given by way of rebate of taxes on certain forest lands to encourage their preservation as such. While this is being done by the state to preserve our forests the citizen in every community should most cheerfully, aid in this good work by zealously and faithfully performing the duty which the law casts upon him—by assisting the extinguishment of forest fires. And the constables of our county in every township should leave nothing undone in the performance of their duties in this regard."

BERRY TO GET BOTTOM FACTS.

State Treasurer Elect's Watchword Is Publicity.

State Treasurer-elect Berry, in a long interview published this week, says that he is going to get the bottom facts in all of the deposits of state funds made in recent years, and proposes to make them public. He will serve two years from the first Monday of May next, after giving a bond in the sum of $500,000, to be approved by the governor. Mr. Berry will be a very persistent and active official if he proposes to do all on the program he has laid out.

State Treasurer Mathues is engaged in housecleaning, and it is announced that the directors of the defunct Enterprise National bank of Allegheny, as individual bondsmen for the deposit of state funds in that institution, have paid the last installment of the $1,030,000 held by the bank, and it no longer owes the state any money. The City Savings and Trust Co., of Lancaster, owes the state about $42,000, will be paid this month and that will finish up the indebtedness of the defunct banks to the state. It is said that when Mr. Berry takes office he will be handed cash and nothing in shape of a note.—Harrisburg Independent.

HISTORICAL MEETING.

Indian Days, History and Burial Grounds Up for Discussion.

Saturday was Indian day at the Bradford County Historical society meeting and an interesting session was held. J. Washington Ingham of Sugar Run, read a paper on the Indian history of the tribes and villages of Bradford county, prefacing his remarks by a scholarly sketch of the early history of the Indians and the tribes on this continent when America was discovered, and first opened for settlement.

A. T. Lilley of LeRoy, gave an illustrated talk on Indian lore and the implements used by the red men, showing a number of specimens of implements taken from graves at LeRoy. C. F. Heverly discussed the Indian burial grounds, their location and the county and what has been found in them. J. A. Biles of Homet's Ferry talked on Indian paths, specializing those found in the Southern part of the county. The society voted to unite with the Federation of Historical Societies of Pennsylvania.

The veterans make the journey as the guests of the state of Pennsylvania, the legislature having made an appropriation to cover their expenses. Every one of the soldiers fought at Vicksburg, and some of them have not visited the scene of their great triumph since the Confederate stronghold capitulated to Grant. Those from this section of Pennsylvania who are entitled to attend are as follows:

GRANGE AT LUTHERS MILLS.

Membership Increasing in Sullivan County—Spring Inspections are Being Held—Open Hand's Anniversary—A Lesson in Geology.

(Communications to this column should be addressed to A. T. Lilley, LeRoy, Pa.)

Deputy J. E. Bird of Sullivan county, reports 26 applications for membership in Cherry grange and more coming; Overton grange has 20 new names and several other granges have three or four each. Brother Bird has been making a house to house canvas. He says a new grange at Shunk soon.

Deputy A. S. Stevens reports the organization of a new grange at Luthers Mills on March 15, with 22 charter members. He mentions the following officers: Master, F. L. Leonard; overseer, F. L. Luther; lecturer, Florence Morgan; secretary, Myrtle Lane. The name of this new grange is Mayflower.

On March 21, Columbia grange program consisted of a "Revival of Ye Olden Times." Of course it was a complete success. Members of 30 years or more ago filled the chairs.

Deputy A. T. Lilley inspected Beech Flats grange on March 16. During the past year this grange has made many improvements. It has converted its one story building into a two story one, adding a dining room; admitted many new members and has three applications on hand; the degree team laboring in a zealous way, and all are working in harmony to advance the interests of the grange. Mrs. A. T. Lilley and Mrs. N. E. Lilley of Open Hand grange degree team were present and were pleasantly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wright. Brother Wright is not only master of Beech Flats grange but of its degree team. A good library would be of great benefit to this grange.

On the 17th inst. Towanda Valley grange, under the leadership of Theodore S. Wilcox, was found in waiting for inspection service. The attendance was good and all were ready and willing to act well their part. This grange has received six applications since the first of the year. Brother and Sister Dan Boyce of this grange are preparing to locate in South Dakota where Brother Boyce now is. They have been active members of this grange and will be missed at the grange meetings.

At a recent meeting of Granville Centre grange all four degrees of the subordinate grange were conferred.

On March 12, Open Hand grange celebrated its 32nd anniversary. Program announced, visiting in the forenoon, dinner at noon, calling the roll, responses following, recitations, songs and reading of the "Grange Record," a newspaper written by the following members of the committee on program: Mrs. R. A. Palmer, Mrs. N. E. Lilley, and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Lilley. The exercises were enjoyed by all.

State Grange Campaign.

The state grange is about to enter upon a vigorous campaign to secure the right for trolleys to carry freight and express matter. It is for the interest of every patron as well as for every citizen to have a full force all united to see that the voice and vote of Pomona district No. 23, be on record for this measure. There is no doubt but the majority of the people of the state are in favor of this move. To make sure of success it is necessary to elect law makers, who will help make laws that will be effective. Do not forget that it will soon be time to choose our representatives. Be sure that your candidate is right on this question and that your party be pledged to its support.

Lesson in Geology.

The limestone foundations of Bradford and Sullivan counties are found within the Chemung and carboniferous ages. Prior to the foundation of the Allegheney mountains the Chemung age formed a part of the earth's crust covering a large part of the state of Pennsylvania and especially all of the northern part. A fossiliferous limestone strata of from six to 40 eet in thickness was everywhere found at a point about 350 feet below the top of the Chemung. After the shrinking and breaking up of the crust of the earth that made it possible to have the Appalachin mountain system a great glacial period come to hand crushing, washing and carrying away much of about three thousand feet of the outer crust of the earth. This work of one of nature's throes caused the destruction and carrying to the sea of more than one-half of the Chemung limestone of Bradford county. The glacial work made it possible for every student to glance upon the unfolded leaves of the great geological book, and if his desire for knowledge be directed aright he may be able to read much, and will find the broken out-crop of this limestone a few hundred feet lower, geologically, than the red shades of the Catskill age. He will learn this limestone, in a commercial point of view, is of but little value. It is of a reddish color and frequently has a considerable per cent of iron in its composition. Outcrops of this limestone may be seen in nearly every township in Bradford county, and also in two of Sullivan county. Many exposures are noticed near the Towanda and Lycoming creeks. In many places this lime has been burned and tested in various ways but finally discarded. The mountain limestone lies near the base of the carboniferous age, is only two or three feet thick, of a conglomerative nature and of but little value. There is not blue or light blue limestone belonging to Bradford county geology. Please notice the head waters of Lycoming creek are along the upper Chemung, Catskill and lower carboniferous ages.

FORD HELD IN $1,000 BAIL.

TO UNITED STATES COURT.

Men Charged With Conspiracy in Congressional Manual Case.

S. McA. Ford was given a hearing before United States Commissioner John W. Mix Tuesday in the grand jury room of the court house. Ford was charged with conspiracy in connection with the sale of the Congressional Manual and at the conclusion of the hearing he was held in $1,000 bail for his appearance before the United States court at Harrisburg on the first Monday of May. The government was represented by Assistant United States District Attorney A. T. Searle of Honesdale and Postal Inspector H. E. Lucas of Williamsport. Deputy Marshal J. W. Snyder of Scranton was also here.

The government sought to show that Ford was a participant in the conspiracy to sell the Congressional Manual under false pretenses in that it was claimed that a portion of the proceeds from the sale of the book went toward worthy institutions in Washington, D. C., and Ohio. They showed that Ford and Johnson, the man who sold the books in this section, had been friends the past 25 years and that Johnson stayed at Ford's home in Chicago.

Ford was represented by David Kaufman, Esq., and Rodney A. Mercur, Esq. Ford's claim is that he was simply acting as the delivering agent for the books and that he knew nothing of the representations that had been made when the orders were taken. His attorneys are confident that he will be cleared when the case comes up in the United States court. Ford was remanded to the Bradford county jail, pending his efforts to secure bail. Among the witnesses here at the hearing were C. I. Vandyke, J. W. Chamberlain, L. R. Lantz, Benjamin Smith, and E. A. Waldo of Wyalusing, P. A. Smith, W. S. Lafferty and Elizabeth Thompson of Camptown, L. C. Warren and W. H. Gulliver of Ralston, M. C. Bodines of Kress, Tioga county, S. I. Hayes of Middlebury Center, J. G. Pratt of Binghamton, C. P. Brown of Rochester, W. C. Crippen and F. F. Castlebury of Roaring Branch and M. H. Vanscoten of Montrose.

MAKING A SCAPEGOAT.

When Everything Else Fails Rap the Business Men's Association.

When one gets sore on the town he invariably lays everything that goes wrong to the Business Men's association. But the men who are sore are those who never do anything to aid the town and then from the viewpoint of those who know absolutely nothing of what the Business Men's association has tried to do they howl about its inactivity and its lack of results. The Towanda Business Men's association has done a great many good things for Towanda and its members have given days and weeks of hard work in behalf of the industrial interests of Towanda.

But the knocker cares not for this. If a specification of good done a yard long were made out, he would still find fault and kick. Towanda and every other town needs an aggressive body of young men to aid, foster and preserve her present industries and to secure new ones. Let the knockers become builders and set the pace for the alleged laggard Business Men's association to follow.

Inoculated Cows.

Dr. Stoker of Wilkes-Barre and Dr. Deubler of the University of Pennsylvania, performed an experimental inoculation on six young cows on Dr. Walsh's stock farm, near Bloomsburg. The nature of the operation was the intravenous injection for the prevention of tuberculosis. Dr. Leonard Pearson of the University of Pennsylvania and state veterinarian, is credited with originating the operation.

JOHNSON CASE HERE.

Judge Fanning Refuses the Petition for Change of Venue.

COMES UP AT THE MAY TERM.

Johnson's Attorneys Alleged That the Feeling of Prejudice in This County Was so Strong That Defendant Could Not Get Fair Trial.

In court Thursday morning, Judge Fanning discharged the rule granted upon the commonwealth in the Charles Johnson murder case to show cause why a change of venue should not be granted. The trial of Johnson will probably come up the first week in the regular May term.

Testimony in the hearing was taken on Monday and then the hearing was adjourned until Thursday when the examination of witnesses was concluded and the arguments made. W. P. Wilson, of the law firm of Lilley & Wilson, represented the petitioner, Charles Johnson, and sought to show that there existed a widespread prejudice in the county against the prisoner and that this had been inspired by sensational accounts of the case in the newspapers and statements that Johnson belonged to the "Pool" class, and that there was a conspiracy to lay the crime at Johnson's door.

The commonwealth contended that the newspaper accounts in the local press had been singularly fair and impartial and consisted of extracts of the proceedings of the courts and in no way sought to prejudice the rights of the defendant or to try the case in advance of the decision of the jury. In discharging the rule for a change of venue, Judge Fanning said that he believed that a jury could be summoned who would try the case on its merits and give their verdict upon the evidence they heard in court, regardless of any opinion that they might have formed. He also took occasion to say that the local newspapers had given, in his opinion, fair accounts of the case, and that the sensational reports came from outside publications. District Attorney Mills, William Maxwell and David E. Kaufman represented the commonwealth.

READY FOR BUSINESS.

That there will be something doing very shortly in the way of Lehigh Valley railroad improvements at Towanda is evidenced by the fact that a gang of about 30 Italians were set to work Saturday in the cut just east of the East Towanda crossing, preparing to lay a siding.

This siding is being built, it is said, to accommodate the steam shovels, work trains and cars of the contractors who are expected to begin work soon on the improvements. The bids for the new bridge and the grading closed Saturday, and probably within a very few days the contracts will be let and the work pushed.

WAVERLY AND ADDISON MET WITH DISASTROUS FIRES.

Flames Attack a Hotel in Each of the Towns.

The handsome Colonial hotel at Addison was entirely destroyed by fire at an early hour on Thursday morning. The flames were first discovered by Mrs. Warner Cheeseman, a relative of the proprietor, who aroused the sleeping guests.

The guests consisted of Mrs. Emily Howland of Westfield, Pa., William Wagner of Ithaca, and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hillman of Elmira, and all had narrow escapes.

Waverly was thrown into a state of high excitement Thursday night by the dangerous fire which broke out in the basement of the Tioga House, the largest and most costly hotel in the village, and partially destroyed it. The Emma Bunting Theatrical troupe was playing in the Waverly Opera House, which is the adjacent building and when the alarm was sounded at 8:45 o'clock there was evidence of some excitement among the 1,100 people who filled the house to its capacity. The house was dismissed in a quiet and orderly manner. There was no excitement and the big audience put on their wraps and left the house without the slightest disorder.

Started in the Basement.

The fire originated in the basement of the big hotel and spread rapidly in the basement and soon began to crawl up the main air shaft of the building, which would permit it to radiate to every part of the structure. A general alarm was sounded and 150 firemen responded from the four companies. At 10:30 the fire was pronounced to be under control and in another hour it was entirely out.

Losses and Insurance.

The building was owned by Grant Dodge of East Waverly. He did not learn of the fire until after it had been put out. It is four stories high and is made of brick. There are 100 rooms and it is valued at $65,000, with furnishings of $45,000. The loss on the building is estimated to be about $12,000, with $4,500 insurance. The hotel was run by James McRay.

The weather prophet who last fall predicted a severe winter on account of the large size of the muskrat houses has been observing an ominous silence of late.

A gang of tile ditchers have worked practically every day the past winter on a large contract ditch south of Rutland, in Humboldt county. Not a bad recommendation for our Iowa climate.

South Carolina, which is the chief strawberry center of the United States, last year produced 2,700 carloads of this fruit. Ten thousand men, women and children were required to pick the crop.

We passed seven loads of hogs going to market the other day—five hogs to the wagon, 300 pounds to the hog and $6.20 per hundred pounds the price. This meant an extra hug and kiss from the good wife and a large chunk of satisfaction when the owner got home that night.

A maximum of utility was got out of the old bossy that was milked up to the age of twenty-two and then fattened on pumpkins and killed to furnish the family meat supply for the winter. We heard of a case of this kind the other day and believe it beats anything that has come under our notice.

The efficacy of the wide tired wagon as an aid in the making of good roads is finding recognition in a number of states in the introduction of bills looking to a reduction of the road tax for all owners of the wide tired wagons. This is a sensible move and one that seems likely to produce definite results.

If the manure has accumulated around the barn this winter, get it out now before the spring work commences. Put it on the knolls on the meadow pasture. It is worth more to the ground now than at any subsequent period. If left in piles and hauled out in the fall, you lose all the substance which the spring and summer rains wash out.

An eastern farmer succeeded in keeping his Jersey bull in a very docile and tractable condition by using the animal regularly in a tread power which operated his cream separator. He was also broken to drive, and the children rode to town more than once, the animal being hitched to a two wheeled cart. Bulls, like human beings, need something to do or they are likely to get into mischief.

To prevent too early blossoming and consequent danger from frost the strawberry bed should not be uncovered too early. When done a good way is to pull the bulk of the straw from the crown of the rows into the spaces between, allowing the plants to come through a thin layer of straw. The straw serves to keep the berries out of the dirt, while the litter between the rows serves as a mulch and makes it clean underfoot.

Is there an implement on the farm, considering the great number in use, that is more universally sheltered in the open field than the hay loader? We noticed one recently which had been left in the meadow, the meadow plowed, the corn planted, plowed and finally cut with a corn harvester. The hay loader still stood in the selfsame spot and will probably continue to stand there until the field is reseeded, and then how handy it will be—right on the ground, you know.

In riding over the state we are impressed more and more with the increasing number of really pleasant homes there are on the farms. And then we wonder why it is that so many farmers, when they have attained this almost ideal state and are seemingly ready to begin to enjoy themselves, become dissatisfied and want to move to town and go into some kind of business. Does it give them a more honorable place in society or make them more thought of by their neighbors? We think not. Don't delude yourself with the notion that the merchant has a snap. He has been plowing corn these years, the same as you have, and if he has been successful his success has been bought at the same price as yours—by the sweat of his brow. The mercantile business has to be learned from the ground up, the same as farming. Don't think that because you have some money that you could invest in some line of mercantile business you could light on the top twig of the tree and sail off with the plum. You will have to buy your experience and pay for it at the rate of 100 cents on the dollar. Most likely it will come sight draft, with bill of lading attached.

...the climate and physical conditions prevailing. Sagebrush and buffalo grass are simple signals which nature puts out warning the settler against locating with a view to carrying on ordinary agricultural operations, and the warning is one that every prospector for new land would do well to heed. We hope the promise of the land agent will be more than half fulfilled in the case of the men who have made such purchases, but we do not expect it to be.

There will be more draintile laid in northern Iowa this season than in any five preceding years.

A poor stand of corn may be due to early and too deep planting, as well as to poor seed. A big crop of corn is due primarily to good seed and secondly to intelligent handling and care.

While in conversation with a lumberman lately the statement was made that not a stick of timber that had been in the yard a year but had increased in value at least $5 per thousand.

Hay tea, made by steeping bright timothy hay in hot water, re-enforced by a small ration of oilmeal, has been found a very good substitute for milk in the raising of calves. While perhaps necessary only in emergency cases, it is well worth remembering.

Many's the man who will kick on spending two days testing his seed corn who will stoically plow half a stand of corn, unconscious of the fact that half of every day is absolutely thrown away, and whistle when he cribs thirty bushels of corn to the acre. Test every ear of corn from which seed is taken and eliminate this enormous and inexcusable waste.

We always put faith in a boy who is not afraid of work—good hard manual labor. Work is the best developer and preserver of the moral and physical qualities which go to make up a manly man. Show us the plodding, industrious boy not ashamed of good hard work and we will show you the future successful man, and if he sings while he works so much the better.

The finest lettuce which we remember getting from our garden was from self sown seed which had been given an early start by the sun on the south side of an arbor vitae hedge. This was transplanted and set about eight inches apart. These plants produced regular cabbage heads, with blanched centers, which were delicious. However started, best results can be obtained by transplanting.

If rabbits have gnawed the young apple trees, but have not eaten off all of the light green bark, or cambium layer, so as to completely girdle the tree, the injury can to quite an extent be overcome by applying several coats of grafting wax, if the wound is small, or by wrapping strips of cotton cloth soaked in hot grafting wax about the tree spirally, so as to protect the wound from the air and sun. We have had trees practically restored by this method.

We know of a good many methods of stacking hay, but we certainly consider the "chute method" the peer of them all for the putting up of a thoroughly rotten stock of hay. It has absolutely nothing to recommend it unless it be the getting of the crop into piles in the quickest possible manner. The ideal stack is the one that returns to the owner the greatest per cent of bright clean hay when it is opened, and this will never be found in the low, broad, irregular pile.

With the increasing scarcity and consequent higher prices of lumber, the value of cement as a substitute for wood in many of its uses is coming to be more fully appreciated. Where sand is easily obtained cement is at once available for stable floors and foundations. The cement block is used for the superstructure, while the cement post with wire center makes a most effective and durable substitute for the short lived wooden article. These are but a few of the many ways in which cement is supplanting wood, yet it is clear that the industry, if it might be so called, is but in its infancy.

If the boys and girls on the farm always received as much care and consideration as the blooded stock, there would be small disposition to leave the farm when they arrived at their majority, and, on the other hand, there would be very few parents who would have to spend their declining years deprived of filial regard and affection or sheltered by the county farm. While some children are by nature selfish and ungrateful, there are very few who will not respond to considerate and loving treatment bestowed during childhood years in the home. Kindness to both animals and children is an investment that fetches large returns—principal with its interest compounded semiannually.

Every farmer who can do so should own a small flock of sheep. They are in a way plant scavengers—clean up what the rest of the stock leaves and make a large part of their living on weeds that remain untouched in the pasture and meadow and only serve to befoul the land. We have in mind a nice piece of work done by a flock of them. A timber lot of some eighty acres recently cleared grew up to a mass of bull thistles, which matured and scattered millions of seeds over the pasture. The sheep were turned in the next spring, and when fall came not a thistle was to be seen anywhere. And the thistles in question were but one of the many weeds that were effectively kept in check.

With the coming of spring there is probably no subject that naturally comes more under discussion than that of good roads. The merits of the King road drag are so well known through all of the central western states that a description of the implement is unnecessary here. In practical operation it has proved the simplest and most effective device for making a smooth, hard road yet discovered. In a number of Iowa counties, where the drag has been most extensively used, boards of supervisors have bought as many as 200 for use on the roads of the county, at the same time offering incentives with a view to securing their general use by road supervisors and property owners.

HOME GROWN CELERY.

No vegetable that came from our garden the past year gave a greater measure of satisfaction or proved a more toothsome delicacy than the product of a small bed of celery. If early celery is desired, the seed should be sown in a box indoors or in a hotbed, the plants being transferred to the open ground as soon as the weather permits. Transplanting gives a stocky and vigorous plant. We have found a very satisfactory arrangement for the celery bed to be as follows: Dig a trench of the width and length desired and to a depth of about eight or ten inches; work into the soil at the bottom several wheelbarrow loads of well rotted manure, setting the plants in rows about ten inches apart and about eight inches apart in the row. Being in the trench and below the surface of the ground, the bed does not dry out rapidly, while the watering of the bed is greatly simplified. During the period of early growth the bed should be hoed and kept free from weeds. When about twelve or fourteen inches high hilling should be begun, the earth taken from the trench at the start being returned. With this method no boards are necessary. Two or three hillings should be given, care being taken each time to keep the earth from getting into the crown of the plant. Celery raised in the manner described is as much superior to that found on the market as is full cream cheese to the skinniest skim milk product. The golden, self blanching variety has proved most satisfactory.

SAGEBRUSH LANDS.

A number of Minnesota and Iowa farmers have gone to Washington and invested in farms located in a dead level prairie tract of some 80,000 acres lying north and east of the Columbia river, paying in the neighborhood of $12 per acre. We understand from some who have made such purchases that the land in question is covered with sagebrush, that one has to dig down between 300 and 400 feet for water and that there is practically no rain from April until October. These facts prove conclusively that such land is at best in a semiarid district and that unless water can be obtained through a system of irrigation the payment of the above amount per acre is a very precarious speculation. It is true that along the water courses good crops of wheat may be raised, but we are decidedly skeptical as to the Iowa farmer being at all satisfied with such an investment and a great deal more skeptical as to his being willing to live

ALFALFA IN THE ORCHARD.

It seems somewhat strange in these days, when so much is being written relative to the value of the legumes—clover, alfalfa, beans, peas, etc.—as soil renovators and fertilizers, to note the advice of an eastern agricultural journal against the use of alfalfa as an orchard crop "because the taking of three or four crops a year from the land would be too much of a drain on the fertility of the soil." The writer suggested, in place of alfalfa, oats, to be cut green for hay, and clover, the second crop of which was to be left on the ground. The writer in question seems to have entirely overlooked the fact that the work of the legumes in restoring fertility to poor or exhausted soils is performed entirely, except when the crop is plowed under, through their root systems and that the taking of two or even three crops of hay from the land would not serve to impair its fertility. True it is that alfalfa does not do well on all soils and under all conditions of climate and soil moisture, but in any orchard where it can be made to grow it cannot be surpassed as a soil fertilizer and cover crop. Experiments with it in some Nebraska orchards show very striking results, the difference in the growth and thrifty appearance of trees in portions of the orchard where it grew being very marked. There is no better soil fertilizer and cover crop for the orchard than alfalfa if it can be made to grow.

BINDING TWINE FROM FLAX STRAW

Following closely on the establishment of penitentiary twine plants in a number of states have come the discovery and introduction of methods whereby flax straw may be utilized in the manufacture of binding twine. The first plant of this kind is now established and in operation in St. Paul. Some of the flax twine put on the market last year is said to have been the equal of the best sisal twine. The straw is baled as soon as the flax is cured, baled without thrashing and shipped to the factory, where it is worked up, the seed being saved and sold and the straw worked up into twine. The importance of the industry will be seen at once, for if the twine made is satisfactory it opens up a new and important industry in the flax growing districts, where heretofore the straw left after thrashing has been an almost complete loss. The development of the business will be watched with interest.

TILLMAN ON TRUSTS

He Thinks They Are Getting Too Much Protection.

CONSTITUTION IS A BUGABOO

South Carolinian Remarks Upon Judge Humphrey's Decision and Says Jerome Has Fallen From Grace—Turns the Laugh on Senator Spooner.

Washington, March 27.—Senator Tillman presented his daily communication on the question of railroad discrimination, to meet the request of Mr. Scott, as he explained. The letter in this case was from Samuel Kinsey of Carrick, Pa., president of the Pittsburg Standard Coal company, who made the complaint that the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad refuses to afford accommodations to his company's mines, thirty-one miles west of Pittsburg.

In the same connection Mr. Tillman referred to his resolution concerning the contributions of national banks to campaign committees. He said he knew of one case in which $17,000 had been contributed to the Republican campaign fund in 1896, and he had reason to believe that no less than $1,000,000 had been so given by the national banks that year. He also spoke of Judge Humphrey's recent decision in the beef packers' case and declared that the tendency was to punish a man of straw, the corporations, without paying attention to the individuals. He declared that we were "too infernally anxious" about this artificial man; he wanted the beneficiary looked after. No doubt, he said, the law was correctly interpreted, but that was the trouble; he wanted the law reformed.

"Now there's Mr. Jerome," he said. "He, too, has fallen from grace and is out against reform. So here we go. The dear people are told that we are doing our best for them, but that the dear old constitution stands in the way."

As to Cartoons.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Tillman quoted Mr. Spooner's recent speech devoted to pointing out the necessity for careful legislation and also made mention of a cartoon illustrating the effect of Judge Humphrey's decision. The Wisconsin senator objected that his friend was going too far and declared that it was the first time that he had ever known a judicial opinion to be impeached by a cartoon.

"Cartoons often point out some pertinent facts," remarked Mr. Tillman.

"The last cartoon I saw of the senator from South Carolina," said Mr. Spooner, "showed him being kicked over by a donkey."

"The last I saw," said Mr. Tillman, "showed me riding a donkey and the elephant tied to the donkey's tail."

There was a roar of laughter in the galleries, and it extended to the senate floor.

Spooner In Taft's Clothes.

"I saw a cartoon of myself," said Mr. Spooner, when he could again be heard, "which showed me in a suit of Secretary Taft's clothes, but it did not illustrate any principle."

Mr. Tillman admitted that often his language was too "lurid" and then immediately repeated his conviction that we were "too infernally anxious to protect the beneficiaries of the corporations." He declared that the attorney general was the direct progenitor of the doctrine that the corporations could be punished, but not their officers and stockholders. He had laid down the principle in the case of of Mr. Morton and the president had accepted the doctrine, both exclaiming: "He's clean and honorable and should be immune. Go after the dirty railroads."

The decision in the packers' case was a natural consequence, he said. The attorney general had been "hoist by his own petard."

"No Treason of the Senate."

Washington, March 27.—"There is no treason of the senate," declared Senator Spooner in an address before the Psi Upsilon association of Washington. "The great scandals of the past in Washington could not happen today." The senator denounced those who would tear down the character of the man in public life and praised Taft as the most self sacrificing public man of the day. "He has a four months' option on the supreme court bench," he said, "and, should he accept, would make a good official, but the country may lose a good president."

TOWANDA, PA., MARCH 29, 1906

STRICT ON LICENSES.

Judge Orvis of Centre county, in granting licenses the past week laid down some new rules to hotel men, among which were that no whiskey was to be sold in bottles and that they would have to keep their bars closed on Memorial, Thanksgiving and Christmas days. The rules in this respect are the same as laid down by Judge Smith of Clearfield county.

The courts all over the state are this year holding liquor license applicants to an unusually strict account, and the result is that in some of the cities leading hotels are losing their licenses. There will be much less trouble when it has been clear that the man who does not obey the law cannot hope to get a license, and that there can be no distinction between the big and the little.

Addison, N. Y., is agitated because of the poor fire alarm system there and the inadequate work of the fire department. There are few towns which have any sort of a fire alarm system. The result is that alarms are sent in a reckless and often a dilatory manner and then the fire companies run out of their rooms before they know the direction of the fire. If some wise man would invent an alarm system which would not bee too expensive, he should reap a fortune. Towanda is in the same boat as the other towns hereabouts. A good system is needed. There isn't much money to pay for it. Who will solve the problem? The time to do it is before and not after a big fire.

Orders have been issued by Postmaster-General Cortelyou instructing the postmasters of New York and Brooklyn to refuse to admit to mails the advertisements of fifty-two illegal "medical offices" in those cities, and also to refuse to deliver mail matter received addressed to the fictitious and assumed names under which parties conducting these concerns hide their identity. The department has had inspectors working in New York for some time gathering evidence to close the mails in these cases, and the officials expressed the belief that practically all of the criminal concerns of this character in these cities have been covered.

They are telling of an Atchison, Kan., girl who receoved a proposal of marriage by telegraph. She went to the telegraph office and asked the clerk how many words she could send for a quarter. He said 10 and her answer was: "Yes, yes, yes, yes, yes, yes, yes, yes, yes, yes."

An exchange thinks that the defense of a financial person charged with bigamy that he married his second wife when he believed his first wife was on her deathbed and sure to die is certainly entitled to prominent, if not honorable, mention for its combination of artlessness and nerve.

A New Jersey court holds that a man is not responsible for beer bills incurred by his wife, as beer is not a necessary of life. A certain smart set near New Jersey would like to know whether the same rule applies to cocktails and highballs. — Chicago Record-Herald.

The many friends in the newspaper profession of William J. Peck, publisher of the Pittston Gazette, will be pleased at his reappointment as postmaster at Pittston. Mr. Peck has made an excellent postmaster and that is the chief reason for his reappointment.

Lewistown council has adopted resolutions to increase the borough debt $50,000 for paving, macadamizing and other street improvements, and providing for a special election on the proposition May 15. The town has but 4,151 inhabitants.

State Fish Commissioner Meehan has announced that no applications for black bass for stocking streams hereafter received at his office can be filled. The number of applications now on file is 3,000, and these will exhaust all of this year's output.

The last sentence penned by Johann Most was, "To h—l with the law." Without desiring to be personal it is nevertheless pertinent to suggest that possibly Johann has gone to see if the law arrived safely at its destination.—Philadelphia Press.

William Randolph Hearst although a member of congress, has according to the New York Sun, put in just five days in Washington during the present session. For a reform member, this is not a glittering record.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

The Harrisburg Telegraph says: "Comparatively few names are mentioned in connection with the gubernatorial office. Upon the surface it looks like the narrowing down of the final choice to two or three well known public men. As this paper has before intimated, however, the office of governor is not more important this year than that of auditor general. It is clearly the purpose of the Democrats to make their attacks upon the auditor general's department and in order to meet this assault the Repjublicans must place upon the ticket a man who will be entirely acceptable to the large body of voters whatever may be their party connections.

"Justice John Stewart and Col. Louis A. Watres are the recognized leaders in the race for first place so far as the Republicans are concerned, and the Democrats are only waiting for their political opponents to make some rank blunder to help them in shaping their campaign.

"Governor Pennypacker is not a politician in the accepted meaning of the term, but he is thoroughly awake to the importance of nominating men who will measure up to the demands of the important places to be filled, and so far as his advice will count he is certain to counsel care in the selections."

The Harrisburg Star-Indepnedent says: "A prominent state official, considerably interested in the selection of a Republican candidate for governor, called up Justice John P. Elkin on the telephone on Wednesday last, after reading that Mr. Elkin had written a letter to a congressional friend to the effect that he would accept a nomination, and asked him concerning it. Justice Elkin replied to the effect that he is not a candidate, and under no consideration will he be a candidate, but there were conditions under which he could not avoid being a candidate, such as a unanimous nomination from a united party.

"In that event it would be impossible for him to decline a nomination. The feeling is growing in state political circles that Elkin will be the nominee. All talk about Justice John Stewart being the nominee has died out because of Justice Stewart's vigorous declination to discuss the matter at all, and gradually those who talked Stewart or Watres, and possibly the contest may narrow down to these two—with Elkin being merely in the position of a receptive candidate."

NEW VIEW OF TRUSTS.

The Pioneer takes a new view of he trust problem. From the ethical standpoint, its editor concludes that when Carnegie made William Ellis Corey rich, he actually made him poor.

This is not as contradictory as it may seem at first glance. There is no doubt that when Corey and his wife were struggling in poverty that he was a brave, manly fellow and found a worthy helpmeet in Mrs. Corey, but quickly acquired wealth brought with it a broken home and a dishonored husband.

Many men can not bear success. While adversity is a severe school, it seems that it is best adapted to most individuals and the discipline of the Hebrews in the wilderness is as necessary now as it was then.

W. E. Corey is only representative of a large class which would be still larger were fortunes more generously distributed. The man who tells what he would do were he a millionaire, knows nothing about it. He would probably be transformed, as was Mr. Corey, by a sudden acquisition of wealth, and a good man would be spoiled to make a poor Croesus.

When a man goes to college, he thanks fortune for the teacher who made him study. The study that he did in school aids him when he strikes something hard at college. When a man goes into business for himself he thanks fortune for the boss who made him work hard and right when he was an employe. And to bring the matter to a conclusion, when a man has lived his life and is about to draw the last check, he thanks fortune for the string of hard knocks and circumstances that kept him decent. Hard knocks are the things that make men. Gentle taps give him the angle worm spine. It is better to eat the bony shad than angleworms.

Judge Willson, in quarter sessions court at Philadelphia, decided that suit clubs wherein members pay $1 a week and draw once a week for a suit of clothes, the lucky drawer not having to make any further payments, are illegal lotteries within the meaining of the laws of Pennsylvania and have no right to exist.

The grand jury in Dauphin county has found a true bill against S. Reuben Lentz, John W. Miller, James F. Garverich, James M. Woland, school directors, and Rev. Samuel A. Garnes and A. J. Spannuth, all of Jackson township, charged by the state health department with conspiracy to defeat the purpose of the compulsory vaccination law.

ARE WE A CHRISTIAN NATION.?

A writer in the current Harper's Weekly makes some interesting comments upon a recent dispute between Rabbi Silverman and Justice Brewer over the question: Is America a Christian nation? Dr. Silverman contended that it is not, the majority of Americans, according to him, not being Christians. He holds that there are over 40,000,000 people in this country who belong to the various non-Christian religions, or to no religion at all. Dr. Silverman is quoted as having affirmed that our government owes nothing to the Christian religion, as far as its elements are concerned; and that, in fact, our government is founded on the laws of Moses.

The Harper's Weekly writer argues that the Christian religion itself is a development of the Jewish, and that it might be true that our government was founded on the laws of Moses, and still be true that it was based on Christianity. An enormous majority of our people, he says, think in the terms of the Christian religion. "What religion a man belongs to in a large sense is not to be determined by his conduct nor, often, by his professions, but by his history. You can tell what a man's religion is by the way he swears as well as by the way he prays. An overwhelming majority of our population is Christian by heredity and instinct, and it is an entirely justifiable use of language to call the United States a Christian nation." The Harper's Weekly, by the way, works in a new criterion by which one may judge whether a man is a Christian or not.

In addressing a demonstration at Manchester, this week, John Redmond, M. P., made the most hopeful speech yet heard from an Irish leader. He said he believed that Ireland had turned the corner; that the record of the last elections would never be reversed, and that the England of the future would give to Ireland all that she could reasonably expect or demand. The government would be given time to fulfill the pledges contained in the King's speech, and the Nationalists would not contemplate the possibility of a rising in which they would be forced to turn their weapons upon the present government as they had turned them upon previous ones.

The following questions are bound to be debated hotly during the next session of the Pennsylvania legislature: "Shall Trolley Roads Carry Freight?" "Shall the maximum railroad fare be reduced to two cents a mile?" and "Shall the compulsory vaccination law be repealed or amended?" It is no matter how you feel on any of these questions, our lawmakers will be called upon to discuss them, and it is quite likely that these three questions will really form the issue during the next campaign. Prospective candidates are advised to study up and decide where they are at on all of these questions.—Dushore Review.

State Health Commissioner Dixon has suggested that the enactment of a law that will make conviction of malpractice punishable by a revocation of the license to practice medicine in the state, in addition to the other penalties provided by law. He says that there are physicians practicing medicine in Pennsylvania now who have been convicted of professional crimes and misdemeanors of a gravity that would promptly cause the disbarment of a lawyer, if committed by a member of the legal profession.

Auditor-General Snyder has devised a system by which every account presented to his department hereafter will be carefully audited before a warrant is issued. These accounts will be audited by E. C. Dewey, of Clearfield, at present assistant cashier of the state treasury and expert accountant. Dewey was appointed to his present position on merit and he was selected by General Snyder to put into effect the new system on the same grounds. The appointment goes into effect on April 1.

The Lewisburg Chronicle says: "The farmers this year face a trying situation. There is a general exodus of the young men from the farm to town," and much more to the same effect. Even those who agree to engage themselves break their word, and in the Spring, when they are needed, pack up their belongings and walk to town when they cannot ride.

Attorney General Carson announced this week that the state had recovered $236,762 from the national government for debts which it incurred in the war of 1812. The recovery of claims by states which assisted in the national defense in the second war with England was made possible by an act of congress of April 17, 1861.

STEAM MOTOR CARS.

The motor-car problem for suburban service is an active problem with the large systems. Newest developments are on the Erie and the Burlington.

The Burlington is now building a small steam car with which it will experiment. The steam car has been recommended by Max Toltz, former mechanical engineer of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

The car which the Erie has ordered is also propelled by steam. It will carry 80 passengers and is equipped with an 80-horse power boiler. Anthracite is used for fuel and power is furnished by two 50-horse-power steam motors.

The machinery is to be built in Europe for both the Burlington and Erie cars.

TWENTY YEARS FOR SPRIGGS

Negro Master of "White Slaves" Gets Limit of Law.

New York, March 27.—Robert H. Spriggs, the negro master of "white slaves," was sentenced by Judge Cowing to twenty years in state prison. His housekeeper, Sallie Bennett, a negress, was sentenced immediately afterward to ten years.

Spriggs was convicted after a trial of several days of luring white girls to his houses, situated in various parts of the city, notably one in Cornelia street, and of keeping them imprisoned there. The Bennett woman was indicted on similar charges, but pleaded guilty to the indictment, which charged a first offense. Spriggs' offense was his second, and his sentence was accordingly greater than that meted out to the negress.

"Spriggs," said Judge Cowing to the negro, "I doubt if we could find in this great city a person more devoid of a sense of honor than yourself. You are a living example of the lowest kind of depravity. You lured girls to your dens and there submitted them to indignities that cannot be mentioned in open court.

"If you lived in some states where law is not as well observed as it is in this state you would not have had the benefit of a trial.

"As a warning to others, if there are any such in your business in this city, I am going to give you the maximum penalty for your conviction. If there are any others following up your class of business who are to come before this tribunal they can expect no mercy whatever.

"I sentence you to twenty years in state prison."

MINERS FAIL TO AGREE.

Joint Committee of Soft Coal Men Report No Scale.

Indianapolis, March 27.—The joint scale committee of the bituminous coal operators and miners of the central competitive district, after having been in session one week, reported a disagreement to the joint conference of miners and operators.

The national officers of the miners in the committee strongly reiterated their former declaration that under no circumstances would they sign a scale at anything less than an advance in wages of 5.55 per cent. President Perry of the Illinois miners assured the operators that no Illinois union or district would be allowed to sign unless the advance was given to every union mine in the state. This ultimatum was received by the operators in silence, and an adjournment was at once taken.

He Hates His Mother-in-law.

New York, March 27.—In Essex Market court Max Lociv, a dry goods merchant at 417 Grand street, fainted on the bridge before Magistrate Walsh while he was giving testimony against his mother-in-law. Lociv had summoned his wife and mother-in-law, Mrs. Samuel Aberman, to court, alleging that the latter had interfered with him and his wife. Before the magistrate Lociv said, "I love my wife, but I hate my mother-in-law." Magistrate Walsh dismissed the summons, but ordered the mother-in-law to leave Lociv and his wife alone.

The Passing of Russell Sage.

New York, March 27.—The passing of Russell Sage, the great money lender of Wall street, has been presaged by the announcement of his retirement from the executive committee of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern railroad. With this came the statement that Mr. Sage intends soon to withdraw from the directorate of all the other Gould roads. This announcement is taken by Wall street to mean that the great financier at last has reached the stage at which he is forced to withdraw from activity in the business world.

Another Man After Rockefeller.

Philadelphia, March 27.—"I am going to keep after John D. Rockefeller until I have him actually upon the stand testifying against the Pennsylvania," says James W. M. Nevlin, a lawyer, who is seeking to show in court that the Pennsylvania railroad gave the Standard Oil company unjust rebates. His clients, Denaille & Despeaux, an oil firm in Lyons, France, allege that the Pennsylvania railroad and the Standard Oil company were in collusion to aid the business of the latter and crush its competitors.

TOWANDIAN WRITES ON THE PAVEMENT QUESTION.

Dr. S. M. Woodburn Believes Proper Stone Macadam Good Enough.

To the Editors of the Reporter-Journal:

In your Monday's issue you say: "If any pavement be put down in the piece of Main street from State to Court streets, let it be brick or stone blocks. Enroll yourself under the banner of permanent pavement for important thoroughfares. The stone macadam would be poor economy fos as busy and much traveled section of Main street as the part in question."

I would like to know what is the matter with the macadam on Main street south of Bridge? It has been there a good many years and has cost nothing to speak of for repairs, and the wear and tear on that part of the street is as great as that part north of Court street. And if the former is a good serviceable street why would not a similar one be good for the latter? It would certainly cost much less money which is a very important item, especially in the present condition of the borough's finances. While increasing the tax rate it behooves us to try and devise means to decrease the expenditures.

There are towns in this state twice the size of Towanda that have their principal streets macadamized instead of paved. And they are very good and serviceable streets. I would cite as examples Carlisle and Chambersburg—two clean and progressive towns with twice the population of Towanda. But their macadam streets were not covered with dust and dirt, neither were they top dressed with lime stone and a 15 ton roller driven over and over and over them until it was ground into powder to make a mortar bed when it rains and a source of flying dust when dry.

The secret of a good macadam road is the top dressing. This should be of stones of uniform size and hardness. The smaller the stones the more agreeable to travel over while undergoing the packing process. And let me say that no roller ever does this whether it be a 15 ton or a 50 or 100 on roller. It helps by pressing the stones together but does not key one stone against another so that they become firmly fixed and immovable. It is the travel that does that. There are miles and miles of good macadam road in Pennsylvania that never had a roller on them. Given a macadam road with a properly constructed top dressing of hard stone of uniform size and it will have a smooth surface and wear like adamant.

We have the stone at our door that I think would prove to be a hard and durable stone for the top dressing. I refer to the cobble stone from the river. The softer stones have been ground up and those remaining are of almost uniform hardness, and hard at that. The objections to our macadam streets are the mud and uneven surface. Of course they would be muddy when a lot of dirt is put on that when wet becomes mud and this mixes with the stones and the surface becomes uneven. A mixture of dirt and stones is not a macadam road. I think that has been thoroughly demonstrated in this town. Another question—if the portion of the street under consideration is to have an expensive pavement why should not the abutting properties pay the bulk, say two-thirds, of the cost? Why should they have a very enpensive pavement and other tax payers given none? Let us make a larger distribution and not put so much in one place unless they pay for it.

SAYRE LAD PASSED AWAY ON THE OPERATING TABLE.

Benjamin, Son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bentley, the Victim.

A sad and most distressing death was that on Monday of Benjamin, the 13 years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bentley of Sayre, former residents of Towanda. The boy passed away in the office of Dr. H. S. Fish while undergoing a surgical operation. The boy was taken to Dr. Fish's office to have an enlarged tonsil removed.

The operation is a simple one and the young lad appeared to be in the best of condition. He was placed upon the table and Miss McCreight, directress of nurses at the Packer hospital, administered the chloroform and Dr. Fish performed the operation. At its conclusion, which was of only a few seconds' duration, it was noticed the heart failure had caused dissolution without a moment's warning. Dr. C. I. Ott of the hospital and Miss Peters, a nurse, were hastily summoned, but after an hour's work their services were of no avail. The body was brought to Towanda for interment.

Later it was learned that an unknown man was literally ground to pieces at a place named Freeman the second station this side of Easton. The remains of a man were found scattered along the track and they were so badly multilated that recognition was absolutely impossible.

Dennison of Sayre, who alleged that while he was driving a lady through the streets of Athens, the boy whistled a tune which is whistled at scab workmen. RED ROW TUSSLES ONCE MORE WITH KING ALCOHOL.

Four Vanquished and Sent to Jail for Twenty Days Each.

On Friday night at about midnight, Officers Allen and Hollon were summoned by neighbors of the Red Row on South Main street to that always interesting nest of houses to quell the sounds of revelry by night which floated out from the domicile of Ben. Ackley. This is the same place where Burley Johnson got his leg burned by the explosion of a lamp in which water had been put in to raise the oil to the wick. Johnson is now at the county house and his leg may have to be amputated.

At Ackley's house Friday night the officers found Robert McMahon, his wife Kate, Ben. Ackley and George Vanderpool, better known as "Nickabobaroo," widower of Mary Shaylor who was burned to death recently at William Ackley's house in Towanda township when another celebration was going on. All were under the hypnotic influence king alcohol on Friday night and George and Ben. were barefooted. They made such a time that while Officer Allen held them, Officer Hollon acted as ladies' maid and put on their shoes and stockings, also their hats and coats. Meantime Kate disappeared. Mr. Hollon afterwards dug her up out of the sub-cellar. The quartet were escorted to the lockup. Before Burgess Foyle Saturday morning, they were each given a fine of $5 and costs or 20 days in the county jail. All preferred the jail, or at least took that end of the burgess's ultimatum. George destroyed a necessary part of his cell's furniture during the night and sentence was suspended on this.

Towanda Couple Divorced.

A divorce was granted Irene E. Cowen, of Alderson at Wilkes-Barre, Saturday, from her husband, Joseph Cowen, cruel and barbarous treatment being the grounds upon which it was granted by the court. The couple were married at Waverly, on May 15, 1905. After their marriage they went to Towanda to reside but on June 9 last they moved to Maltby. It was here that their troubles began and according to the testimony of the wife her husband frequently kicked, abused and threatened her. Attorney R. Laura Cannon represented the libelant and Attorney John A. Opp, of Plymouth, was the master.—Wilkes-Barre News.

Horse Sale.

The sale of 20 horses by G. E. Collins, Thursday afternoon, brought a large number of prospective buyers to Towanda. The sale was held on Main street in front of the Kinney House and that some one was not killed by passing teams, was due to a dispensation of providence. The horses were a good looking lot and attracted favorable comment. The prices for those sold ran from $125 to $160, as a rule. "Joe Dexter" was not sold, the price not running up high enough to suit the owner.

C. M. B. A. CELEBRATED ITS TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY.

Supreme Officers Were Here to Explain Changes in Rates.

Branch No. 19 of the Catholic Mutual Benefit association held its twenty-fifth anniversary in St. Agnes hall Monday evening and a fair crowd of members and friends turned out to listen to the addresses of the supreme officers who came here to attend the anniversary meeting. The occasion was made interesting to the members because of the fact that the rates of dues for the older members of the order have been raised of late and the supreme officers were called on to explain the necessity of these and the plans of the society for the future.

The speakers of the evening were Joseph Cameron of Hornellsville, supreme recording secretary, John J. Hines of Buffalo, supreme president and Rev. J. J. Coroner. William Foyle, Esq., presided. The speakers made interesting addresses upon the order, discussing its history, purposes, benefits and its future good.

After this session the audience were treated to refreshments in the dining hall of the school. McHenry's orchestra gave a number of pleasing selections during the meeting and while the refreshments were being served.

Daniel Knauf, auctioneer, tree doctor, etc., was Thursday arrested in Towanda by Constable F. W. Tepel of Williamsport, and was taken to Bellefonte, where he is under indictment for defrauding a boarding house keeper. Knauf is the gent who failed to liquidate for a board bill at Troy a few weeks ago, and who also neglected to settle for his lodging at the Kinney House a couple of weeks ago. He acted as auctioneer for Nathan Loewus for a few days and a law suit resulted over the question of wages. Then he went to New Albany and turned tree doctor for a time, coming back to Towanda to cry the auction sale of horses yesterday.

Railroad Men Laid Off.

By the closing down of the Erie shops, many employes at Elmira, Scranton, Dunmore, Susquehanna and Hornellsville are thrown out of work. The number of men affected is close to 6,000. The reason given is that the threatened miners' strike will make their repair work on rolling stock unnecessary at this time.

THE S. & N. Y. STATION IS COMING UP TOWN SOON.

Company Has Leased the North Store in Hale's Opera House Block.

The Susquehanna & New York railroad officials, after about a year's consideration of the plan, have decided to move their passenger and freight depot from the present location—the old Barclay depot—to the corner of Main and Washington streets in the Hale's Opera House block. Just when this move is to be made employes of the company in Towanda could not say, but the deal for the possession of the property has been made and it is probable that the change will be made soon. This location will also be used by the P., B. & E. railroad for their Towanda station, the two companies already having mutual traffic arrangements.

Plans for the remodeling of the building for a station have not been perfected, but it is understood that the main entrance will be on Main street, with stairs at the rear leading to what is now the basement of the store, through which access to the trains will be had. The location will also give ample and convenient room for freight purposes.

An uptown station for the S. & N. Y. will be a greatly appreciated convenience for the road's growing patronage, and indicates that more than a mere short line business between Towanda and Ralston is contemplated.

Telephoning from Trains.

While the Susquehanna & New York railroad has not yet reached the dignity of being able to telephone from moving trains, each train, both passenger and freight, sent over the road carries a telephone and the appliances to connect with the company's metallic circuit lines. Trainmaster Blair has perfected a device that is simplicity itself and yet enables a train crew caught in trouble anywhere between stations to at once communicate with headquarters. Two copper hooks are mounted on a long bamboo pole and wires of sufficient length to reach to the instrument in the car are attached. These copper hooks are thrown over the wires and the rest is easy.

In Iroquois Fire.

Mrs. Alexander Putnam and little son, of Chicago, are visiting her brother, Bradley Wakeman. Mrs. Putnam and her boy were in the Iroquois Theater on that fateful afternoon when the holocaust occurred that horrified the world, and her accounts of the affair are graphic and thrilling. She is a talented elocutionist, and naturally her powers of portrayal are good. She was carried fainting and unconscious from the building, but was unharmed. She goes to Towanda today to visit friends.—Tunkhannock Republican and New Age.

Mrs. Putnam is visiting Mrs. VanFleet on State street.

Woman Needs Occupation.

School directors at South Bethlehem had their attention called by a teacher of one of the intermediate grades to a genuine love letter that she had taken from a boy pupil less than 14 years of age. The writer is considerably older, and a society woman, it is said. The leter was directed to be sent to the little chap's parents. They threaten to make things interesting for the woman accused of writing love letters that hint at marriage to children, and sensational developments are expected.

Drury Mfg. Co. Officers.

The stockholders of the Drury Manufacturing company held a meeting last week and elected the following directors: J. M. Ayers and B. M. Ayers of Towanda, C. R. Davis and W. H. Davis of Pittston. They elected the following officers: President, J. M. Ayers; vice president, W. H. Davis; secretary, B. M. Ayers; treasurer, George Drury. The boiler and engine of the new plant above town have been set and the frame work is up. The plant will be under cover in about two weeks.

PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION.

One Granted Mrs. Ellen Connolly Against Telephone Company.

Mrs. Ellen Connolly, who owns a house at the corner of Fifth and Mulberry streets, brought suit in equity and has been granted a preliminary injunction against the New York & Pennsylvania Telephone & Telegraph company, restraining them from erecting a pole or maintaining wires in front of her home. Mrs. Connolly claims in her petition that the pole obstructs the view from her house, interferes with the means of approach and creates an unsightly appearance at the place where the company's men have been digging.

The court fixed Monday at 10 o'clock in the morning as the time for hearing the injunction as to whether it shall be made permanent or dissolved. Lilley & Wilson represent Mrs. Connolly.

Killed in Lehigh Valley Wreck.

A train on the Lehigh Valley railroad, was wrecked at Honeoye Falls, Thursday morning. The engineer, William Gaffney of Rochester, was instantly killed. The fireman, Edward Brusky, of Honeoye Falls, was buried under the engine and was alive when taken from the wreck, but died while being conveyed to a hospital in Rochester. The accident was caused by the pilot of the engine dropping. Although all the cars were derailed none were damaged and no passenger was hurt.

Another Pittston Fire.

Pittston, which only a week ago had a $60,000 conflagration again fell a victim to the fiery element at an early hour Sunday morning when flames that broke out in the Nichols estate building, located on the west side of North Main street, near the ferry bridge, destroyed property and stocks to the value of $50,000. It was only after nine hours' hard work by the firemen that the fire was gotten under control and the recently erected flatiron building saved from destruction.

CARELESS SHOOTING.

North Towanda Has Another Case on Saturday Afternoon.

Recently a young girl at North Towanda was shot in the shoulder by a bullet from a revolver in the hands of a young boy. There was some talk of an arrest in the case but the boy claimed that the shooting was accidental and that he was merely trying to get the cartridge out of the weapon when it was discharged.

On Saturday afternoon while Philip Lally was sitting in his house in North Towanda, he heard a sharp sound and found that a bullet had entered the room through a panel of the door. A boy with a gun had been shooting outside and the bullet came in the door. Thus far, not so awfully bad. But where are the North Towanda cases going to end? Some time, some one will be shot and killed and then a great hue and cry will be raised because boys are allowed to carry deadly weapons.

CAP FOR ODD FELLOWS.

May Be Worn by Williamsport Men in Canton Parade.

The advisory committee of the I. O. O. F., at Williamsport Friday night took important action in regard to a uniform style of cap to be worn by the men on parade occasions. It was recommended that each be provided with a black felt cap of military order embroidered in white silk with a three-link design over the lodge number of the weaver.

It may be possible the cap will be worn for the first time at the Canton anniversary.

Steered Too Wide.

One Richard Jenkins publishes the following notice in the Clyde, N. Y., Times: "This is to certify that my wife, Elizabeth, formerly the Widow Wild, is too wild to be steered by my compass, but one of her own making, and as she has the devil for her pilot she has altered her course and steered away from me, so that I will pay no debts of her contracting after this date."

TO ARREST PERKINS

Jerome Wants Courts to Pass on Campaign Contributions.

THREE WARRANTS ASKED FOR

All Based on Gifts by New York Life Insurance Company Trustees to Cornelius N. Bliss—Beginning of Big Legal Battle.

New York, March 27.—District Attorney Jerome decided to obtain from the supreme court a ruling on the question whether larceny had been committed by officers of the insurance companies in making campaign contributions.

The district attorney called on Magistrate Moss in the Tombs court and arranged to secure a number of warrants for the arrest of insurance officials who have made contributions for the companies with which they are connected.

From what Mr. Jerome said in court last week in his tilt with Judge O'Sullivan it was supposed that the first warrant would be issued for George W. Perkins.

Mr. Perkins testified before the Armstrong committee that he paid $48,000 to Cornelius N. Bliss as a campaign contribution to the Republican party. Mr. Jerome made this transaction the basis of his action.

As soon as the warrants have been executed writs of habeas corpus will be secured in the supreme court, and the whole matter will come up for review and decision by the higher court.

If the decision leaves any doubt the matter will be carried up to the appellate division and eventually to the court of appeals.

NEW SUITS AGAINST M'CURDY

Mutual Seeks to Recover $5,120,000 From Its Ex-President.

New York, March 27.—Complaints in two more of the eight suits to be brought by the Mutual Life Insurance company against the McCurdys, Louis Thebaud and C. H. Raymond & Co. were served. While the suits are of a civil nature, the complaints embody charges of a criminal character in that the defendants are accused of conversion of the insurance company's funds and fraudulent conspiracy.

The new suits are aimed at Richard A. McCurdy, Robert H. McCurdy, Louis Thebaud and C. H. Raymond and concern the agreements between the first named as president of the Mutual and the others as members of the firm of Raymond & Co. It is virtually charged that President McCurdy shared in the profits of the Raymond firm, which was allowed excessive commissions by the Mutual. The total amount the trustees are now striving to recover from the former president is $5,120,000, and there are still five more suits to be brought.

SEVEN KILLED AT CROSSING

Train Dashes Into Vehicle—Three Generations of One Family Victims.

Sunbury, Pa., March 25.—Seven persons representing three generations of one family were killed here on the Philadelphia and Reading railway at Hass Crossing, one mile south of this place. The dead are: G. W. Neidig, aged sixty-three years; Clarence Neidig, aged forty-one years, and Silas Neidig, aged thirty-six, sons of the first named; Mrs. Clarence Neidig, aged thirty, and their three children—Mary, aged four years; Blanche, aged five years, and Gilbert, aged two years. All of the victims were instantly killed with the exception of Blanche, who died later at a hospital.

There was to have been a family reunion at the home of G. W. Neidig at Augustaville, a small village near here, and the latter had driven to the home of his sons to convey the party to Augustaville.

At Hass Crossing the Pennsylvania railroad and the Philadelphia and Reading railway runs parallel a short distance apart. A curve renders one road invisible from the other, and to this fact the accident was due. The wagon containing the seven persons had crossed the Pennsylvania railroad tracks and had just reached the Reading tracks when an express train north bound from Shamokin dashed into the vehicle. The occupants of the wagon were thrown or dragged many feet by the locomotive, and their bodies were terribly mangled.

FALL RIVER FLEET ON FIRE.

Steamer Plymouth Wholly Burned and Others Badly Damaged.

Newport, R. I., March 27.—The Fall River line's big side wheel steamer Plymouth was burned to the water's edge, the freight steamer City of Lowell was damaged, a long pier shed, hoisting shears, paint shop and old railroad station were destroyed, and the paint was scorched off three other steamers, the Puritan, the Priscilla and the Naugatuck, by a fire which burned for nearly three hours and which at one time threatened to wipe out the entire repairing plant of the owners of the line, the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company.

The loss is estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Louis LeMont, a Portuguese fireman, lost his life in the fire. His body was found, badly burned, on the main deck of the steamer. He is supposed to have been suffocated. He was about twenty-five years of age and is believed to have lived in New York.

The remaining twelve caretakers, watchmen and firemen on board the Plymouth when the fire broke out made their escape, although they were nearly hemmed in by the rapid rush of flames.

NO MERCY FOR MOSQUITOES

New Jersey Will Spend $350,000 In Exterminating Them.

Trenton, N. J., March 27.—A war of extermination against the mosquito, which has given New Jersey such an unenviable name in the past, will be waged unremittingly for the next five or six years, as there is every indication that State Entomologist Smith will receive the $350,000 which he has asked from the state for the purpose of reclaiming the marshes, which are the breeding grounds of the pestiferous little insect.

The entomologist has marked out 200,000 acres of marsh land where the mosquito thrives. He has satisfied himself in experiments on the Newark meadows that the draining of these marshes will solve practically the whole problem.

The market value of all the land in the state is upward of $1,000,000,000. Experts estimate that this value will be enhanced at least 10 per cent by ridding the state of its winged pest. The state mosquito department that was the jest of all the funny men has become a pet institution.

French Play Causes Awful Riot.

Vienna, March 27.—Serious street rioting occurred at Bucharest, Roumania, and culminated in a conflict between the rioters and the troops, during which two men were killed and more than 300 were wounded. The trouble arose over a demonstration of Roumanian Nationalists against the use of the French language in a performance at the National theater.

NEW RUSSIAN REVOLT

ASSISTED BY REACTIONARIES

Conspiracy of Courtiers Opens Way For Another Popular Insurrection Military Authorities Busier Than During the War With Japan.

St. Petersburg, March 27.—Despite the government's assurance that another extensive outbreak in the immediate future is impossible, the clouds are lowering, and there are other indications that a big storm may break before parliament meets. The resentment against the terribly repressive measures of the government is arousing the people, especially the workmen in the cities, to fury. This is playing into the hands of the revolutionists, who are planning a political strike and a general uprising. They believe that the right moment will come in mid-April, and both sides are prepsring for the fray. If it comes it is likely to be bloodier and more terrible than anything previously witnessed in this country.

The record of arrests last week in St. Petersburg, besides showing an awful state of lawlessness in the capital, is eloquent testimony of the methods by which the government hopes to prevent the threatened explosion. According to the returns, 659 beggars, 215 persons without passports, 217 thieves, 270 highwaymen and 1,067 "unclassified" persons, which means political suspects, were taken into custody.

At no time during the war was the war office busier than now making dispositions to suppress the first evidences of rebellion. Machine guns and ammunition are being dispatched in every direction.

Thirteen Postal Officers to Die.

Chita, East Siberia, March 27.—The court martial here sentenced to death thirteen postal officials who participated in the recent strike.

Talk About Algeciras.

Washington, March 27.—Secretary Root and Mr. Hengelmuller, the Austria-Hungarian ambassador, had a long conference at the state department before the cabinet meeting, the Algeciras conference, it is understood, being the subject. Secretary Root has been supplementing the conferences which have taken place at the White House at intervals during the progress of the Algeciras meeting between the president, himself and diplomatic representatives of the great powers with private talks at the state department with these officials, and undoubtedly they have had a decided effect upon the proceedings of the formal conference across the Atlantic. For obvious reasons the officials do not deem it advisable just now to publish the extent of the activities of the American government in this important matter.

Don't Want Their Mother to Marry.

Philadelphia, March 27.—On petition of two of the sons and a brother, Judge Butler in the Chester county court appointed the Girard Trust company guardian for Mrs. Henry B. Coxe, the rich widow, who is determined to marry a poor English doctor despite the protests of her family. The appointment of a guardian does not necessarily stop the wedding, but the family believes that since it will secure Mrs. Coxe's $1,000,000 fortune it may lessen the charms of the sixty-year-old widow in the eyes of Dr. Hill. Her relatives declare she is in her second childhood.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For a Charming Blouse Designed by Martha Dean. No. 6554

For the woman who makes her own blouses the accompanying design is excellent because of its rare good style and simplicity of construction. A square yoke in front offers a field for trimming and is very becoming to most wearers. Groups of narrow tucks stitched a short distance from the yoke provide fullness for the blouse, which is drawn down easily into the belt. The blouse closes in back with thread buttons or hooks. A full puff and deep tight cuff form the modish sleeve. Batiste and mull are favored for the lingerie waist after this pattern, while eolienne, peau de cygne, radia and crepe de chine are all good for the waist. The medium size requires two and seven-eighths yards of twenty-seven inch material. No. 6554, five sizes, 32 to 40 inches bust.

HONESDALE IN LINE.

Only Permanent Pavement Wanted at Wayne County Seat.

Whatever is done by way of improvement of Main street, whether it is brick or macadam, money will be wasted in putting down either without a suitable and substantial foundation. City and borough authorities having had experience know this statement to be true. There is a great difference in soils. That of Honesdale being largely of a sandy loam, an especially heavy and solid foundation will be needed for either brick or macadam. The latter in the shape of a thin dressing of cracked stone has been used here for years at a cost that would have many times over bricked the entire length of Main street.

It would disappear in the soft earth of the street almost as soon as put on it. Surely we do not want to waste money any longer by carrying on this almost worse than useless method. A foundation that would be required to carry a macadam would also carry brick, and in the end the latter would doubtless be the cheaper of the two because of its longer durability. A macadam road must be continuously patched and repaired and is therefore an endless source of expense. This is the observation and experience of men who have dealt with each method of street building.—Honesdale Independent.

Dumping Coal at Ransom.

The Lehigh Valley Coal Co. has begun the dumping of coal at its coal storage plant at Ransom, and already about 500 tons have been stored away. In about three weeks the company expects to have about 100,000 tons in stock. Men who work there and who have seen the coal storage plants at Sayre and Weatherly, say that it will be one of the best equipped yards on the Valley system. At Weatherly there is room to store 700,000 tons, but the Ransom yard is built to hold 400,000 tons more. Twelve tracks and sidings complete the track system at Ransom. The steam shovel is still working clearing away the dirt banks to complete the trackage. Orders have been issued at Coxton to load the bituminous coal that has been stored away for the engines, and this action indicates that there may be no strike in the soft coal regions. Some weeks ago the storage of that soft coal was inaugurated in case of a strike.

At College Commencement.

Dr. Charles Reed of Wysox, leaves today for Washington to attend the commencement of the Naval College, where his son, Assistant Surgeon Edward A. Reed, graduates on Saturday. NO OIL IN LITCHFIELD.

Athens Mining & Development Company Has Quit Drilling.

The Evening News states that after sinking a test well to the depth of 2,521 feet, at a cost of over $2,600, the search for the supposedly hidden wealth of the Litchfield hills, has been abandoned, for the present, at least, by the Athens Mining & Development company.

Friday afternoon the hole was measured and Saturday the contractors, Whitney & Warren, began to pull up the casing. This week the drilling outfit will be shipped to Lovelton, down in Wyoming county, where Whitney & Warren have contracts for puting down several wells in the hopes of finding gas in paying quantities, in event of which a pipe line will be laid to Towanda, a distance of 25 miles.

A New Invention.

A company is being formed at Wilkes-Barre for the purpose of putting on the market various non-metallic articles which have been plated through a secret preparation invented by a man named Peter Discho. The substitution of cheaper substances for the metal heretofore necessary to be used when plating was to be done over the body substance will make the invention a very valuable one, it is believed.

At Monte Carlo.

Lock Haven claims recognition for the efforts of Ervin Scott Armstrong in bucking the tiger at Monte Carlo. NEW MILK PROCESS.

Professor G. W. Cavanaugh of Cornell Has Discovered It.

According to advices from New York, the problem of isolating the material from the watery parts of milk, so that all the essentials may be stored away for use at any time, has, after many years of experimenting, been fully solved by Prof. G. W. Cavanaugh, of Cornell, who has also completely demonstrated the efficiency of the new process.

For several years chemists throughout the coountry have been at work seeking to solve the problem and at times it was announced that their experiments had been successful. But in each case it was proved that the powder did not contain all the essential parts of the fluid and that the result was a failure.

It is understood that after a year of experiments under Prof. Cavanaugh, of Cornell, the new powder has stood every test and as soon as a patent has been obtained will be put on the market.

The importance of the discovery can hardly be estimated. It will do away to a great extent with the losses now suffered by the public in general by milk souring; it will permit the use of milk at all times and in any quantity necessary, and will probably lessen the price of the commodity to a considerable extent.

When Prof. Cavanaugh was seen regarding the matter he admitted that he had been experimenting for some time and that his work was completed. Owing to the fact that he was employed by a corporation, which bound him to secrecy, he said he was unable to give any information regarding the results attained.

Don't Let Little Things Worry You.

Our little local editorial of two weeks ago on the initiative and referendum is doing good work. A Canton paper printed it and credited to "Exchange," and now it appears in the local column of the Wyalusing paper as original matter with no credit at all.—Troy Gazette-Register.

Great Heavens, man! Don't let a little thing like that worroy you. Should you find a dozen or two of your own items appropriated by The Rocket you might have some cause for complaint, but one single item—surely this is just a joke!

Word was sent around that a number of imports with tools and dinner pails were in the city and a large crowd gathered at Broad street when they attempted to board the street car for their destination.

Some of the men managed to get to the Laurel Line station and reached Dupont. Here a man named William Leidy, who was their guide, was pulled off a traction car for Avoca and severely beaten. A Pittston officer got them to the city limits and returned.

WELLSBORO'S BAD FIRE.

Well Known Coles House Practically Destroyed Thursday.

The Coles House in Wellsboro was practically destroyed by fire Friday morning, making the third hotel fire of some importance in this vicinity in the past few days. The fire started at the fourth floor near the roof and on account of a high wind burned rapidly. The blaze was probably due to a defective chimney.

There were many guests in the house and they all had plenty of time to escape with their belongings. The third and fourth floors were practically gutted, but most of the furnishings of the first floor were saved. The building is owned by the proprietor, R. W. Coles, and there is $14,000 insurance on the place.

Mr. Bradley was a devout member of the M. E. church, and was a highly respected citizen of the town.

The Wrong Ticket.

An Addison couple who were just married were riding on the train and were so absorbed in each other that the groom handed the conductor his marriage certificate when he called for tickets. The conductor said: "This is good for a long, weary journey, but not on the Buffalo & Susquehanna." Yes, such a document is part of a tie pass in which a man gets mixed up with switches, ties, trains, coaches, and a tender young woman—a belle with a genuine ring—and a conductor of that kind is grand and elevating to mankind.

Trolley Report.

It was stated Thursday that the Waverly, Athens & Sayre Electric railroad has been sold to the Powers-Mansfield syndicate, of which G. Tracy Rogers of this city is one of the principal stockholders. This syndicate is composed of several of the same men to whom the State Railroad Commission recently granted a permit to construct an electric railroad from Waverly to Corning. The conference was held at the office of Lilley & Wilson, attorneys for the township supervisors, but nothing definite resulted.
